I cannot do everything,...

Don '48 and Gretchen (Berg) '55 Booz

Volunteers — Graceland Forever campaign leader and Board of Trustees emerita

"Graceland continues to invite and welcome our participation in various aspects of the University. Each involvement renews within us the memory of the rare treasures we found on 'the Hill.' We pray that our grandchildren and all young people who come to Graceland will seek and find those treasures offered there. We will continue to support Graceland in any way we can. It is of prime importance to us!"

Volunteer Alumni Board member

"Graceland is a place where good people become better people. We are grateful for what Graceland has given to us and we feel it is important for others to have the same opportunity. The dollar amount we have given each year has changed with our life circumstances. However, the act of giving regularly reflects our belief in what Graceland provides for students and the world."

...but still I can do something,...

Bill and Wendy (Wilcox) '81 Brian

Parents of current students, Coleen ('11) and Caleb ('08) Brian

"We're pleased that we had a unique opportunity to facilitate a gift of scientific equipment to Graceland from Sanofi-Aventis, the company that employs Bill. We hope that this gift will increase research opportunities for students in the various science programs at Graceland. We also give what we can personally while we have two students at Graceland. With over a dozen cousins at Graceland this year, we see the importance of philanthropic support, not just for this generation but for future generations."

Wendell Smith '06

Graceland Men's Basketball Assistant Coach

"Being a school teacher, I didn't expect to make the big bucks. Repaying student loans can be a challenge after college. You don't have to make a lot of money to give back. A little can go a long way."

...I will not refuse to do the something I can do.”

~Helen Keller

No matter what stage of life you are in, participating in the Annual Fund within your means matters. Everyone’s participation, added together, makes a big impact on the educational experience available to students.

Your participation will promote excellence by:

- Strengthening writing skills through the Writing Lab
 - Enhancing communication and teamwork through improved facilities
 - Supporting faculty such as Fulbright Scholar Priscilla Eppinger
 - Making additional scholarship assistance possible

Will you invest in the future with a gift to help students? The good you do today will multiply as students use their knowledge and skills to better the world — for their lifetimes.
